COPS - Hiring	$1 billion ✓	Competitive	U.S. Department of Justice's COPS Office	Federal funds will be used to support the hiring of about 13,000 new police officers for three years. State, local, federally recognized tribal, and public law enforcement agencies, as well as jurisdictions serving special populations (e.g., transit, university, public housing, schools, and natural resources) are eligible to apply for COPS funding for the direct hire of police officers and sheriffs' deputies.	The COPS Universal Hiring Program provides federal funding for newly hired entry-level officer's salary and benefits, up to a maximum amount of $75,000 per officer, over the course of the three-year grant period. Local law enforcement agencies are generally required to contribute at least 25 percent in local matching funds, unless the recipient agency is approved for a waiver of the local match based upon a demonstration of extraordinary fiscal hardship. The stimulus law waives the $75,000 cap and the local matching requirement. In addition, a grantee must commit to use its own funds to employ the officer for a fourth year.
